Proclamation

A Ratified Proclamation has been received from Santa Cruz County, proclaiming the existence of a local emergency due to the 2016 March Storms. The County is requesting a Governors concurrence, Presidential Declaration, as well as State and Federal Assistance.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought.

- A Proclamation Continuance of Local Emergency for Drought has been received from Butte County.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Medford Weather:

Precipitation from this feature will be confined mainly to coos, Douglas and northern Klamath counties with around an inch of snow for Crater Lake. The next front is on track to bring precipitation on Saturday. Snow levels will be in the 5500-6000 foot range but are expected to lower to 4-4500 feet over the cascades by Sunday. Conditions on Easter Sunday will be cool and showery.

Eureka Weather:

An overall warming and drying trend is expected through the end of the week with chances for light rain north of Cape Mendocino tonight and over the weekend. Temperatures will cool off again late in the weekend and early next week.

Reno Weather:

After drier and warmer conditions through the week, winds will increase Friday with a slight cool down for the start of the weekend. A colder system is looking more probable for early next week possibly bringing additional snow to the region.

San Francisco Weather:

High pressure will maintain dry weather across our region through the upcoming weekend. In addition, temperatures will be slightly warmer than normal from Thursday through Saturday before cooling begins on Sunday. More cooling is forecast for Monday as an upper low develops over the western United States. Precipitation is not likely across our area early next week, but scattered showers may develop by midweek.

Sacramento Weather:

Dry weather with daytime temperatures a few degrees above normal through the remainder of the week. Breezy north winds Friday into Saturday. A cool weather system will bring some showers and cooler temperatures Sunday through midweek.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Hanford Weather:

High pressure will build over central California into the weekend resulting in dry weather and a warming trend. Unsettled weather returns early next week with the possibility of showers and a cooling trend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A warm and dry weather pattern will continue through the weekend, and then a trough of low pressure near the Aleutian Islands in Alaska will drop south into the region early next week. A cool and unsettled weather will develop as early as Monday with the possibility of showers continuing across the region through late next week.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Fair weather will continue with warm days and cool nights through the weekend. Some coastal low clouds will begin to appear over the weekend. Locally gusty offshore winds will develop Saturday morning. Next week a trough of low pressure will bring cooler weather, more clouds, and occasional light showers.

Southeast California Weather:

Quiet weather with a warming trend is expected through Friday. A storm passing by will bring breezy north winds on Saturday, especially to the Colorado River valley and a slight cool down. Windy, cooler and unsettled weather is expected early next week as low pressure moves in from the north.

Key Points

03/24 – 03/30

Thursday-Friday

- Chance for mountain snow showers for N CA with no significant impacts.

Saturday

- Strong winds in the Colorado River Valley.

Sunday-Wednesday

- Unsettled with low confidence on path of weekend storm.
- Increased chances of cooler temperatures with valley rain and mountain snow for most of the state.
- Travel may be impacted, especially across mountain passes.
